K. OF C. AT CAIRO FOR INITIATION

Paducah Degree Team Puts on Second Degree

Grand Knight J. T. Donovan Responds To The Toast "Our Sister Councils."

FINE PROGRAM AND BANQUET

Cairo, Ill., June 10.—Yesterday was a notable day in the history of Cairo Council No. 1027, Knights of Columbus. Three hundred esteemed knights from various different lodges were present to attend the initiation of 50 new members from Cairo and nearby towns.

Special trains were run from Paducah, Ky., and Jackson, Tenn., both bringing large delegations. Other cities represented were Murphysboro, Louisville and New Orleans.

The exercises commenced at 9 o'clock yesterday morning when the knights assembled at Armory hall and did not conclude until a late hour last night with an elaborate banquet.

At 10 o'clock the knights and ladies assembled and marched from the hall to St. Patrick's church where high mass was celebrated. State Chaplin Rev. William J. Healey, preached a sermon appropriate to the knights.

Following the services at the church the members disbanded for dinner, many dining at The Halliday while others were guests of local knights at their homes. At 1:30 o'clock the knights and the candidates assembled at the K. M. K. C. hall where the initiation was held.

The degree work of the knights of Columbus which is said to be very beautiful and impressive occupied the remainder of the day up till 8 o'clock when an adjournment was taken to the Armory hall.

The first degree was conferred by the Cairo council, the second by the Paducah council, No. 1055 and the third by Maurice J. Joyce and staff of East St. Louis.

The banquet was the crowning feature of the day's exercises and was attended by over 300 knights. The menu was most elaborate and the affair greatly enjoyed. Dr. J. T. Walsh acted as toastmaster, acquitting himself in a most creditable manner. Toasts were responded to as follows: "Our Sister Councils", J. T. Donovan, G. K. Paducah, Ky.

"Knighthood in Flower", Rev. W. J. Healey, Effingham, Ill. "Our Order", Dr. Charles Molz, D. D. S. K. Murphysboro, Ill. "Ideals of a True Knight", Rev. D. D. Miller, New Burnside, Ill. "Knighthood and Patriotism", Hon. M. V. Joyce, D. D. S. K. East St. Louis, Ill.

Aaron Moore, colored, 68 years old, for fifty-four years a resident of Paducah, died this morning of complications and will be buried tomorrow morning. ## DEATH COMES AS WEDDING GUEST

Bridegroom Succumbs After Bedside Nuptials

Sad Ending To Preparation For Marriage of Miss Elizabeth Burnett.

A FORMER PADUCAHIAN KILLED

Unconscious, naked and lying in the hot sun, Henry Parker, a 14-year-old farmer boy of the Epperson section of McCracken county, was found by boys Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock on the banks of the Tennessee river. He had been overcome by congestion, and but for the timely discovery would doubtless have died. He was taken into the shade, where Dr. Carl M. Sears, of Mechanicsburg, attended him. He did not recover his senses until late last night. The youth, directly after eating a hearty dinner, started rowing in Tennessee river. He "pulled" a race with companions up the river, and returning discarded his clothes and dived into the water to swim. He remembered becoming suddenly ill and crawling out.

News of the death of Mr. Robert Horner, of Louisville, whose marriage to Miss Elizabeth Burnett, the eldest daughter of Mr. Henry Burnett, formerly of Paducah, was to have taken place tomorrow, was received in the city yesterday afternoon and caused universal sorrow. The invitations to the wedding were recalled last week, on account of Mr. Horner's illness, but, it was not thought the illness would prove fatal, and hopes of an ultimate recovery were held until Sunday morning. The wedding was then solemnized at the bedside. Mr. Horner was a former Philadelphian, and managed a large cement plant in Louisville in which his father was the principal owner. He was prominent socially and in the business world of Louisville, and his death, under the circumstances, is sad. Death was due to blood poisoning, following an operation for the removal of a carbuncle. Mr. and Mrs. Muscoe Burnett, left yesterday for Louisville to attend the funeral, and Miss Adine Morton will leave today. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Fred Vint.

News of the death of Mr. Fred Vint reached the city this morning in a telegram from the young man's parents, to Mrs. John Watts, an aunt, wife of the well known steamboat captain. The telegram was brief and gave no details. It read: "Fred was killed in a railroad accident Saturday."

Fred Vint was born and reared in Paducah, and went into railroad service working in the freight offices of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis here until three years ago, when he went to Los Angeles, Cal., with his parents to reside. He was at the time of his death cashier in the freight offices of the Union Pacific road a responsible position. He was a young man of ability and had countless friends in Paducah. He is survived by his parents and one brother, Mr. Robert Vint, the well known operator now in Cairo.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES TO MEET TONIGHT

Contracts For Two New Buildings Will be Let, But Successor to President List Can Not be Chosen Until July

ONE MAN DECLINES HONOR

Frank C. Boone, defeated for school trustee from the Third ward by S. H. Winstead in the Democratic primary last month, probably will be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of President List. The seat was offered to Mr. Winstead, the nominee, but he declined to accept the temporary election. President List will resign at the adjourned meeting of the board tonight, but his successor will not be elected until the regular meeting in July. Vice-President Potter will act as president until the vacancy is filled. There are no definite indications of President List's successor in the chair, but Trustees Potter and Kelley are candidates.

Trustee Kelley will make a motion tonight to grade the salaries of the colored teachers. At present they receive each $35 straight. Trustee Kelley thinks that an increase to $40 for the higher grades would stimulate the teachers to do better work. The teachers in the white schools are graded according to their work. With but one or two exceptions, the old corps of colored teachers will be re-elected tonight. The contracts for the two new school buildings are ready and will be signed this evening.

Lineman Hurts His Head.

Mack Snider, a lineman employed by the Home Telephone company, was taken to Riverside hospital this morning suffering from concussion. He was picked up near Ninth street on Kentucky avenue at 8 o'clock this morning unconscious, having fallen on the hard pavement and struck his head. He is thought not to be seriously injured. Drs. R. E. Hearne and City Physician Harry F. Williamson treated Snider.

CABRERA KILLED

LATEST REPORT

Impossible to Confirm it But Mexican Capital Believes it and is Preparing For Any Emergency

WASHINGTON HEARS NOTHING.

Mexico City, June 10.—There is no confirmation yet of reported assassination of President Cabrera. Suatamla at Guatemala City. Good reason to believe, however, the report to be true.

Troops Preserve Order.

Guatemala City, Saturday, June 10.—Large bodies of troops are in the city and extraordinary precautions are taken each night to maintain order. The fact that a majority of those sentenced to death or imprisonment for alleged participation in the attempt to assassinate President Cabrera belong to the highest society has caused considerable depression in business. The outcome of their plea for a revision of sentence rests with the court of appeals. The time when a decision may be expected is not known.

CITY MUST PAY TAXES WHERE IT GETS PROFIT.

Attorney Frank Lucas, who, as state revenue agent, sued the city to collect taxes on the wharf, market house, cemetery and lighting plant, stated today that he believes Frank Potter will act as president until the vacancy is filled. There are no definite indications of President List's successor in the chair, but the court held that on the market house, wharf and cemetery, from which the city derives profit, tax should be paid the county and state.

BLOODY AFFRAY NEAR YAZOO.

Yazoo City, Miss., June 10.—Details of a bloody affray on the Kirk plantation, near here, were received this afternoon. Three negroes were killed, four white men shot and two negroes whipped. The country in that neighborhood is in arms and the sheriff, with deputies, is hastening there to prevent further bloodshed. The trouble broke out toward noon. T. D. Kirk went into a field on his plantation, where Abe Johnson and his three sons were at work, and gave them orders about their work. One of the negro boys cursed him, and Kirk, resulting in the insult, knocked the negro down. Guns were secured and Kirk was wounded. White men collected and surrounded the Johnsons in their cabin and the shooting commenced.

CAIRO "PABSTS" WIN SUNDAY GAME

Score Four to Three in Exciting Contest at League Park

Locals Gave Away Game By Errors at Crucial Times and Lack of Hitting in Ninth.

SCORES OF THE BIG LEAGUES

The Egyptian Mudslingers accepted the game yesterday afternoon at Wallace park from the locals on a tray of errors. It was a case of "give away" on Paducah's part, but the negroes were not discouraged. It's only one game, and there are yet many more to be played before the season is over.

The Mudslingers arrived in the early afternoon from Cairo on the city of Savannah, missing the morning train. Manager Hollan, of the locals, had advertised the game well, and thought Calro was not coming. He notified his men, however, when Eddie Powers reported in town, and fully 400 fans were out to see the sport.

The game began at 3 o'clock and lasted the full nine innings, until 4:40 o'clock. Not an earned run was made, but the game was close and exciting from start to finish. For the locals good work was done by Block with the stick and with his wing and by Bergdolt with his fast fielding. Hits were scarce on both sides, but errors plentiful.

The lineup:

Pabsts—Warden, if; Powers, ss; French, 2b; Halliday, p; Vest, 1b; Hilburn, c; Morgan, 2b; Judy, cf; Stout, rf.

Paducah—Plumlee, cf; Hessian, 2b; Peitz, 1b; Jones, ss; Bergdolt, lf; Hart, rf; Block, c; Davis, 3b; Arnold, p.

The score:

Pabsts	.....	4 4 4
Paducah	.....	3 5 5

Batteries—Halliday and Hilburn; Arnold and Block.

Paducah scored three in the sixth inning, while Calro scored one in the second, one in the fifth and two in the ninth. Paducah's chances to score in the ninth were knocked in the head by weak batters in line for stick work.

FREIGHTS CRASH BEYOND MARION

ENGINEEMEN JUMP FROM CABS.

A head-on collision of fast freight trains occurred at Repton, five and a half miles north of Marion, on the Illinois Central this morning at 3:05 o'clock. One man was injured, both engines were wrecked, and freight cars and much merchandise destroyed. The cause of the wreck is not determined, and an investigation will immediately be made. It is said that one crew overlooked its orders, while another report is that a stationman delivered the wrong orders.

Train, No. 355, with engine, No. 32, in charge of Engineman Powers and Conductor Hughes met train, No. 274, with engine, No. 29, in charge of Engineman Glenn and Conductor Long at a high rate of speed, and the track was blocked for hours by the debris and positions of the engines.

Engine, No. 32, of the southbound train, turned over, and engine, No. 39, was turned across the track. Freight cars were broken up and merchandise scattered about the track for many feet off the right of way.

At 4 o'clock an order for the Paducah wrecking crew was received from the nearest station, Marion. Henry Blaney, a colored brakeman, was caught as he started to jump, and fell. Both arms were broken, and he was badly bruised about the body.

When the enginemen saw the collision was inevitable, they left their cabs with their firemen, and escaped with a few bruises and sprains. Both crews live in Evansville.

Conference at Chicago.

Master Mechanic R. E. Fulmer, of the local Illinois Central shops, was called to Chicago yesterday on important business, and it is intimated by local machinists that his visit to the Windy City is a direct result of a conference held last week by a committee of machinists from Paducah with officers of the mechanical department in Chicago relative to a foremanship in the local Illinois Central round house which was given to an engineer several weeks ago. It is claimed by machinists that the position rightfully belongs to a machinist and not an engineer.

EXCURSIONISTS LEFT.

Three hundred and sixty visitors were brought into Paducah at 8 o'clock Sunday morning from St. Louis and Illinois via Brookport, and fully 100 were left in Paducah and had to take a roundabout course in returning. Sportsmen's league, of St. Louis, gave the excursion, an annual event and Wallace park was filled with strangers all day. At 5:15 o'clock the train left, and fifteen minutes later a car load of excursionists arrived at the station to find it gone. They were forced to take the Cairo train and go to Carbondale where the excursion train was caught. An order was given to take all excursionists to Cairo and then Carbondale where the excursion train found it.

Brakeman's Hand Crushed.

While making a coupling in the Princeton yards last night at 9 o'clock, Jim Scott, 36 years old, color, an Illinois Central brakeman, was caught and his left hand crushed so badly that amputation was necessary. He was brought to the Illinois Central hospital this morning at 5 o'clock. He lives at Clarksville Tenn.

According to advertisements all summer resorts are alike. They are the best ever—but if fishing is better anywhere else than it is in "Georgian Bay" we do not know where it is. There is a greater variety of fish in this water than anywhere else, and they are always hungry. No one ever counted the fish in the Georgian Bay, but those that have been caught there have been counted and eaten, and if you read the government reports, on fisheries, you know that Georgian Bay supplies more fish than any other equal body of water in the world. The only place you can afford to fish is where the fish are numerous, big and delicious in flavor, and that place is Georgian Bay—so the fishermen say. Mrs. McGrath says she tried several other medicines, which did her harm and finally used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as prescribed solely, which restored her to health and prolonged her life.

"I take pleasure in writing to you what a wonderful medicine your Malt Whiskey is. I am never tired of praising it, for it has done me so much good. While I was taking it I could go out and walk a mile. I have taken so many other kinds of medicines since I have been sick, and instead of improving me they did me harm. I know what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey does for me, and I want no other medicine." Yours, Mrs. MARY MCGRATH, Brandon, Wis., December 18th, 1906.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is recognized as the best tonic stimulant in the world for both young and old.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is distilled wholly from malted grain by a most expensive method which has never been made public and this private process gives it great medicinal value and insures quality and flavor. Its age, softness, palatability and freedom from those injurious substances found in other whiskies make it acceptable to the most sensitive stomach.

It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic. It acts as an antitoxin which destroys and drives out all disease germs, creates new nerve tissues, tones and strengthens the heart, gives power to the brain and elasticity to the muscles, enriches the blood and soothes and heals the mucous membranes. It brings into action all the vital forces. It makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens the system, is a promoter of health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. TORPEDO BOAT WORDEN WINS.
Norfolk, Va., June 10.—The torpedo boat destroyer, Worden, won the race of 250 miles from Scotland Light to Hampton Roads. The race was what the navy yard intended it to be—a test of endurance and a test of service. It came within an ace of being a most costly test, for the Hopkings suffered an accident that might have cost the lives of its entire crew of 70 men.

THE SITUATION.

The presidential situation is shaping mightily badly for the "magnates." The Parker fiasco and the last campaign has sickened Democracy of that sort of politics. Republican possibilities apparently can not be attracted away from such personalities as Roosevelt, Taft and Hughes. Indeed, the signal success of the governor of New York, following individual lines, has seemingly blighted all hope of a reactionary candidate.

Hughes has accomplished more reform legislation than any other man in the same length of time, asserts the Chicago Tribune. His method of outlining a policy, and then uncompromisingly forcing the legislative department and the people to assume their due responsibility has met with unqualified success without the use of executive patronage, the use of a bad means to a good end.

His method is in sharp contrast to the spectacular, and often crude one of Roosevelt, but undoubtedly much of his success is due to the Roosevelt influence on public sentiment. Roosevelt, Folk and Bryan have awakened public morals to such a state that their successors have but to appeal to them to receive immediate response.

Hughes now purposed a departmental investigation, election reforms and franchise taxes. He is making a record. Quiet, conservative, reserved in his manner and habits of thought, he is safe. Maybe Fairbanks' press bureau by constantly harping on the "Roosevelt policies" and a "conservative man" may make Hughes a strong factor in the situation. This is the greatest possibility in the Fairbanks propaganda.

This condition of public sentiment, that invites the half-complimentary accusations of the southern Democratic press that Roosevelt is stealing "Bryan's thunder;" that compels the unwilling co-operation of the New York legislature in Hughes' reforms; and that turns Ohio politicians to lick the hand of Taft, that smote them a year ago, is not sectional; but country wide. This sentiment will be the deciding factor in the national campaign. The result of the national Republican convention will settle in whose favor that sentiment will prevail.

With prosperity continuing, with reforms undertaken in all directions and the presidential policies popular everywhere, the next campaign naturally should find its alignment on the issue of endorsing or repudiating the administration. It will be difficult for those who are accustomed to consider national politics from their personal viewpoint to find a satisfactory candidate to meet reactionary requirements. Knox, of Pennsylvania, may be chosen, as, at least, conservative; but Knox is no nonentity, and the compelling influence of public opinion might set Philander Knox on a course calculated to arouse the alarmists.

Our wise men of the east are to learn that it is not alone Roosevelt and Rooseveltism they are contending against. There is behind Roosevelt that which makes his policies effective, popular approval, aggressive sentiment of the masses against which no man may stand. Yet, withal, the great interests of the country extend no hope to Democracy in the crisis. Desiring to be left alone to their selfish devices, they prefer restricted prosperity to the disasters certain to attend the introduction of free trade, free silver and government ownership of railroads.

The struggle must be in the Republican party, and what a plethora of material! Taft, Hughes, Knox, Root—What man of the Democrats compares in stature with one of these?

If "elastic currency" bears any relation to the contraction in the purchasing power of a nickel, as measured in ice since the warm weather began, we begin to understand the subject.

There's a decided change of tone at Washington in regard to the Japs. Complaints that treaty rights were violated at San Francisco, because Japanese children were discriminated against in the schools, received prompt attention from the administration, as becomes one friendly power jealous of its honor in respect to treaties with another. But, now the Japanese press has assumed a bellicose attitude and querulous, complains that Japs are assaulted by mobs in San Francisco, a city in the throes of a labor riot, with its highest officials and police under indictment and chaos reigning in all departments of the municipal government. At the same time, it is said, Japs are sneaking across our borders by hundreds. Washington, no doubt, grows tired of the pettiness of the orientals, especially since Americans and all foreigners receive such scant recognition in the orient. The Japs have grown a trifle cocky over their defeat of Russia, and America's prompt response to their complaints.

Must we fight this tariff fight all over again? Must we recall the free-soup experience of more than a decade ago? Must we repeat the story of the European laborer, who gets 50 cents a day and rears his family on black bread, with meat once a week, with whom American laborers would have to compete, if the European products were brought into our ports free of duty? Must we point out again the ill clad, half starved and illiterate immigrant workmen running away by millions from free trade Europe to the protection of America? American manufacturers that have subjugated the world, were fostered under a protective tariff. From the time of the war of 1812, when our foreign commerce was cut off, we began to make our own goods. It has been the American policy. We shall hardly entrust revision of the tariff to men, who avowedly don't wish any tariff at all.

At any rate, the president of the Philadelphia &amp; Reading is not a Teddy Baer.

Mrs. Howard Gould is wanting $250,000 a year alimony. Both of them seem to have been leading wanton lives up to this time. Howard says he don't care if she continues wanton.

Many a serious thing is said in jest. Sometimes the most serious consequences follow a joke. Once in a while we Americans take our humor seriously after the manner of the British. Certainly, we must give the humorists credit for the latest crusade of the interstate commerce commission, against the Pullman car rates. Every change has been rung on the comic experiences of passengers in the upper berth. Versemakers, cartoonists and jokesmiths have vied with each other, until, at last, the government has taken up the question of rates. It may be some official has laid for three hours in an upper berth in a train shed on a summer's night before reading the jokes.

Let all epicures take heed. "Dandy Jim" is dead. "Dandy Jim" was a dog whose mistress, the late, lamented Ellen Ann Griffin, spinster, allowed her errant affections to stray from their natural inclination to eat and parrots and settle on this unfortunate canine and cut short his promising career before its time.

"Too fat to breathe," was the last word of the veterinary; for finally after a year of almost human profligacy, "Dandy Jim" got sick as dogs do and the regular kind of doctor could do him no good.

"Dandy Jim" was a good dog, until his mistress died and left him $10,000. Then he lived like a Pittsburgh millionaire. Chicken and mayonnaise and salmon, champagne lapped up from a dish and lack of exercise combined to wreck a constitution that would have thrived on corn cake and bones of beef in the back yard.

There's a moral in this tale somewhere. Perhaps some epigrammatist may put in our mouths the words our thoughts would be moulded into.

It may be "You can't make a dud out of a dog," or, maybe, it may turn on the idea that beasts are abstemious according to their kind, until man—white man—teaches them the wickedness Adam learned when Eve gave him the apple.

Isn't our respect for the internal organism of the human species heightened by contemplation of the fact, that the stuff we gorge ourselves with daily killed a dog?

Well, any combination of involving an Adam and an Orchard is bound to spell death for somebody.

ANCIENT GAME

SOMETHING OF ORIGIN OF THE NATIONAL SPORT.

Baseball Annals Are Always Interesting to Fans—History and Development.

Real baseball is over sixty-one years old. But the origin of the "national game" is more in dispute than the etymology of the term "fan."

The veteran journalist, Henry Chadwick, popularly known as the "father of baseball," who is English-born, contends that baseball, while an American sport, had its origin in the game played by the English schoolboy called "founders." "The basic principle of both games," Mr. Chadwick argues, "is the use of a bat, a ball and bases." But it is a short bat and a soft ball, and the player, on hitting the ball, endeavors to make a circuit—a round—all the bases—in our vocabulary, a home run. As a clincher, Mr. Chadwick says that, when debating the question with Albert G. Spalding, there entered the room devotee of sport, Andrew Peck, whose name, coupled with that of his partner, Snyder, was known to most American boys of twenty years ago in connection with a popular style of ice skating.

"When did you begin to play baseball?" inquired Mr. Spalding.

"In the latter part of the forties," replied Mr. Peck, "about 1847 or 1848."

"What was the game called then?" "Why, 'rounders,'" said Mr. Peck.

But to this day, Mr. Spalding, proud Yankee to the core, is unconvinced. Undoubtedly the foreign taint in baseball bothered him not a little for a time, but he disposed of it to his satisfaction in the spring of 1889, when he visited Liverpool, after a tour of the British colonies, with the Chicago and All-American baseball teams. Throughout the trip English subjects had chided him with the antecedent of the American national game, so he issued a challenge to the champion rounder club of Great Britain, which was promptly accepted. By the terms of the agreement the British champions were to play a one-inning rounder match (two innings make a full game) with a team of eleven men picked from the American "baseballers," as the Englishmen called them, and then there was to be a five-inning game of baseball. As "feeder" (pitcher) for his "eleven," Mr. Spalding was given a leather-covered sphere about the size of a golf ball and rather soft. The rounder batsman faced him with a miniature cricket bat—"a cross between a potato masher and a penholder." A high ball was "fouled"—as the Yankees called it—but the referee declared it a fair hit, and as the batter made a circuit of the four boundary posts before the ball was recovered, he scored four runs. The next batsman repeated the trick, and there was a total of eight runs to the credit of the Englishmen. Then "Feeder" Spalding resorted to low balls close to the batsman's body, and only three more runs were made before the eleven British champions were put out, and the inning was over. These last runs resulted from the failure of an American to hit one of the champions with the ball, as the rules permit.

In their half of the inning, the Yankees were inclined at first to try to "line out" the ball, and the results were disastrous. But soon they got the hang of batting with one hand, and scored eight runs before the eleven men were retired. This left them three runs behind.

The baseball game was an entirely different story. Three Englishmen struck out, and then the Americans went to bat. Thirty-five men crossed the plate, and still the side had not been retired. Because of physical exhaustion both teams were content that the match be declared off. Thus the first inning in the base ball game was never finished; yet the score stood 35 to 0 in favor of the Americans.—Success.

AFRICAN METHODIST CHURCH WILL REBUILD SOON.

Congregation Is Active Under Direction of Pastor and Money Is Secured.

Money for the purpose of building a new church was raised in a novel method by the members of the congregation of the Burk's chapel African Methodist church, Seventh and Ohio streets. Yesterday the result of the work of the different clubs was summed up and $1,525 found for the purpose. Eight weeks ago the congregation, which numbers 675, was divided into 13 divisions and each division was to raise not less than $100. Weekly entertainments were given and dues assessed.

A substantial new church of brick will be constructed at the earliest possible time. The present church is of brick and a neat building, but adequate accommodations are not offered the large crowds. The old building will be torn down and the new church erected on the site. The Rev. G. W. Robinson is pastor and much of the success is due to his efforts.

GOOD WRESTLING MATCH AT THE EAGLE'S BALL

Arrangements have been made for a professional wrestling match to take place in Paducah at the Eagles' Hall Wednesday, June 12. The contestants will be Herman Santello, the European champion and Chicago Sandow world 155 pound champion.

G. W. Falwell, promoter of this match, is in the city, also Mr. Santello, who is a veritable giant, having an arm that is slightly larger than his neck, and he has a neck like a bull. From reports the Chicago Sandow is a wonder, and sport such as never before been witnessed in the city is promised.

The Eagle Hall is an ideal place for these matches, and a large attendance is assured.

NOAH'S ARK

In hammocks we have made special preparations for the summer trade this season and have a line of which any dealer might be proud. Though our hammocks cost less than you are usually asked to pay, you will find no better qualities anywhere than at Noah's Ark.

For $3 we have a variety of hand-some patterns and substantial weaves, full size—values which can not be equalled any place in the city for the money.

If you want a little better one, we have a beauty for $3.25. And for $4.25 we have a hammock which is the equal of any $8 hammock in Paducah. It's large and roomy, with a comfortable pillow. The fabric is heavy and closely woven and the colors are as near weather proof as it is possible to make them. Other good ones for 90c, $1.25, $2.25 and $2.50.

Most any time now a hammock is apt to prove the most comfortable place about the house. By all means come to Noah's Ark before you buy, for if you don't we both lose money.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Paducah Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.

Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Baugache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Paducah women know this. Read what one has to say about it.

Mrs. R. E. Whitner, of 820 South Sixth street, Paducah, Ky., says: "For years I have been a sufferer from backache and kidney trouble. At times my back has been so lame that I was unable to get around my house on account of the severe pain across the small of my back and left side. I doctor'd but received very little benefit until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at DuBois, Son & Co.'s drug store.

I took them as directed and the results have been very satisfactory. I certainly believe that I would have been at least confined to my bed at this time had it not been for Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NEEDED ANOTHER MAN.

The exceedingly Democratic son of a leading dry goods merchant on Broadway was recently playing ball all by himself in the yard of his home. A small colored boy who happened along was cordially invited to play with him. Soon a rather "tattered and torn" white urchin stopped to look on, and was asked to make a third and eagerly accepted. Circuit Judge William Reed came by about this time and was fraternally accosted by the small host who is no respecter of persons. "Hello, Judge Reed, we need another man, can't you come in and take a hand?" All the boy in the big judge was aroused at once and he at once made the needed fourth in the great American game.

CONSERVING OUR OWN RESOURCES

without forests. Waste of effort and waste of forests inevitably followed. Finally the situation was ended in 1905 by the creation of the United States forest service, which has stopped the waste, conserved the resources of the national forests, and made them useful; so that our forests are now being managed on a coherent plan, and in a way that assures well for the future.

Mineral Fuels.

"The mineral fuels of the eastern United States have already passed into the hands of large private owners, and those of the west are rapidly following. This should not be, for such mineral resources belong in a peculiar degree to the whole people. Under private control there is much waste from shortsighted methods of working, and the complete utilization is often sacrificed for a greater immediate profit. The mineral fuels under our present conditions are as essential to our prosperity as the forests will always be. The difference is that the supply is definitely limited, for coal does not grow and trees do. It is obvious that the mineral fuels should be conserved, not wasted, and that enough of them should remain in the hands of the government to protect the people against unjust or extortionate prices as far as can still be done. What has been accomplished in the regulation of the great oil fields of the Indian Territory offers a striking example of the good results of such a policy. Last summer, accordingly, I withdrew most of the coal-bearing public lands temporarily from disposal, and asked for the legislation necessary to protect the public interest by the conservation of the mineral fuels; that is, for the power to keep the fee in the government and to lease the coal, oil, and gas rights under proper regulation. No such legislation was passed, but I still hope that we shall ultimately get it.

Public Domain.

"In addition to treating aright for the benefit of the whole people the forests and the mineral lands, we should similarly try to preserve for the benefit of all the people the great stretches of public domain, some three hundred million acres in all, which are unfit for cultivation by present methods and valuable only for the forage which they supply. This vast area is now open to the free grazing of cattle, sheep, horses, and goats, without restriction or regulation. When population has increased, as is now the case, such utter lack of management means that the public domain is turned over to be skimmed by men whose only concern is to get what they can out of it at the moment, without any regard to whether or not it is ruined so far as the next generation is concerned. In other words, the range is not so much used as wasted by abuse; and as an incident conflict and bloodshed frequently arise between opposing users. With the rapid settling of the west the range is more and more overgrazed. Moreover, much of it cannot be used to advantage unless it is fenced, for fencing is the only way by which to keep in check the absentee owners of nomad flocks which roam hither and thither, utterly destroying the pasture and leaving a waste behind, so that their presence is incompatible with the presence of home-makers. Good judges estimate that our public range has now lost nearly half its value, yet fencing is against the law, and as the law now stands, it is well-nigh impossible to do anything to keep the value of the range. The only practical remedy is to give control of the range to the federal government. Such control would not only stop all conflict but would conserve the forage without stopping its use, as our experience with the national forests has fully proved.

"For several years we have been doing everything in our power to prevent fraud upon the public land. What can be done under the present laws is now being done through the joint action of the interior department and the department of justice. But fully to accomplish the prevention of fraud there is need of further legislation and especially of a sufficient appropriation to permit the department of the interior to examine certain classes of entries on the ground before they pass into private ownership.

Our Waterways.

"The inability of the railroads of the United States to meet the demands upon them has drawn public attention forcibly to the use of our waterways for transportation. But it is obvious that this is only one of their many uses, and that a planned and orderly development is impossible except by taking into account all the services they are capable of rendering. It was upon this ground that the inland waterways commission was recently appointed. Their duty is to propose a comprehensive plan for the improvement and utilization of those great waterways which are the great potential highways of the country. Their duty is also to bring together the points of view of all users of streams, and to submit a general plan for the development and conservation of the vast natural resources of the waterways of the United States.

"Clearly it is impossible for the waterways commission to accomplish its great task without considering the relations of streams to the conservation and use of all other natural resources, and I have asked that it do so. Here, then, for the first time, the orderly development and planned conservative use of all our natural resources is presented as a single problem.

"One by one the individual tasks in this great problem have already been undertaken. One by one in practical fashion the methods of dealing with them were worked out. National irrigation has proved itself a success by its actual working. Again, actual experience has shown that the national forests will fulfill the larger purpose for which they were created. All who have thoughtfully studied the subject have come to see that the solution of the public lands question lies with the home maker, with the settler who lives on his land, and that government control of the mineral lands is necessary and inevitable. Each of these conclusions represented a movement of vast importance which would confer large benefits upon the nation, but which stood by itself. They are connected together into one great fundamental problem—that of the conservation of all our natural resources. Upon the wise solution of this much of our future obviously depends. Even such questions as the regulation of railway rates and the control of corporations are in reality subsidiary to the primary problem of the preservation in the interests of the whole people of the resources that nature has given us. If we fail to solve this problem, no skill in solving the others will in the end avail us very greatly.

"Taxation.
Now as to the matter of taxation. Most great civilized countries have an income tax and an inheritance tax. In my judgment both should be part of our system of federal taxation. I speak differently about the income tax because one scheme for an income tax was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court by a five-to-four vote; and in addition it is a difficult tax to administer in its practical workings, and great care would have to be exercised to see that it was not evaded by the very man whom it is most desirable to have taxed, for if so evaded it would, of course be worse than to tax at all, as the least desirable of all taxes is the tax which bears heavily upon the honest man. Nevertheless, a graduated income tax of the proper type would be a desirable permanent feature of federal taxation, and I still hope that one may be devised which the supreme court will declare constitutional.

"In my judgment, however, the inheritance tax is both a far better method of taxation, and far more important for the purpose I have in view—the purpose of having the swollen fortunes of the country bear in proportion to their size a constantly increasing burden of taxation. These fortunes exist solely because of the protection given the owners by the public. They are a constant source of care and anxiety to the public and it is eminently just that they should be forced to pay heavily for the protection given them. It is, of course, elementary that the nation has the absolute right to decide as to the terms upon which any man shall receive a bequest or devise from another. We have repeatedly placed such laws on our own statute books, and they have repeatedly been declared constitutional by the courts. I believe that the tax should contain the progressive principle. Whatever any individual receives, whether by gift, bequest, or devise, in life or in death, should, after a certain amount is reached, be increasingly burdened; and the rate of taxation should be increased in proportion to the remoteness of blood of the man receiving from the man giving or devising. The principle of this progressive taxation of inheritances has not only been authoritatively recognized by the legislation of congress, but it is now unequivocally adopted in the leading civilized nations of the world—in, for instance, Great Britain, France and Germany. In Great Britain all estates worth five thousand dollars or less are practically exempt from death duties, while the increase is such that when an estate exceeds five millions of dollars in value and passes to a distant kinsman or stranger in blood the government receives nearly 15 per cent. The German law is of special interest, because it makes the inheritance tax an imperial measure, while allotting to the individual states of the empire a portion of the proceeds and permitting them to impose taxes in addition to those imposed by the imperial government. In the United States the national government has more than once imposed inheritance taxes in addition to those imposed by the states, and in the last instance about one-half of the estates levied such taxes concurrently with the national government, making a combined maximum rate, in some cases as high as 25 per cent. The French law has one feature which is to be heartily commended. The progressive principle is so applied that each higher rate is imposed only on the excess above the amount subject to the next lower rate. This plan is peculiarly adapted to the working out of the theory of using the inheritance tax for the purpose of limiting the size of inheritable fortunes, since the progressive increase in the rates, according to this mode, may be carried to its logical conclusion in a maximum rate of nearly one hundred per cent for the amount in excess of a specified sum.

"Such a heavy progressive tax is, of course in no shape or way a tax on thrift or industry, for thrift and industry have ceased to possess any measurable importance in the acquisition of the swollen fortunes of which I speak long before the tax would in any way seriously affect them."

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its beauty.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and mind at once witness to the fact in the wedded comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native American medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the best schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken down in health by too frequent bearing of children, who are unable to find mothers to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve nicely adapted to man's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

CHAPTER III.
PHILIP descended the stairs. He was almost choking now from another cause than strangulation. The steam pouring in through the fractured window pane was stifling. He took off his coat, first removing from an inner pocket the bundle of letters found under Mrs. Anson's pillow, and carefully stuffed the worn garment into the largest cavities. By this means he succeeded somewhat in shutting out the vapor as well as the lurid light that still flared red in the back yard.

The lightning had ceased totally, and the improvised blind plunged the room into impenetrable darkness. He felt his way to the stairs and found the candle, which he relighted. The rain beating on the roofs and on the outer pavements combined with the weird sounds in the inclosed yard to make a terrifying racket, but it was not likely that a youth who attributed his escape from a loathsome death, self inflicted, to the direct interposition of Providence in his behalf would yield to any sentimental fears on that account.

Indeed, although quite weak from hunger, he felt an unaccountable elation of spirits, a new born desire to live and justify his mother's confidence in him, a sense of power to achieve that which hitherto seemed impossible.

He even broke into a desultory whistling as he bent over the hearth and resumed the laying of the fire abandoned five minutes earlier with such sudden soul weariness. The candle, too, burned with cheery glimmer, as if pleased with the disappearance of its formidable competitor. Fortunately he had some coal in the house—his chief supply was stored in a small bin at the other side of the yard, beyond the burial place of the raging, steaming meteor and consequently quite unapproachable.

Soon the fire burned merrily, and the coffee stall keeper's recipe for using coffee grounds was put into practice. Philip had neither sugar nor milk, but the hot liquid smelled well, and he was now so cold and stiff and he had such an empurpled sensation where he might have worn a belt that some crusts of bread, softened by immersion in the dark compound, earned keener appreciation than was ever given in later days to the most costly dishes of famous restaurants yet untried.

His first exclamation was one of thankfulness.

"I am jolly glad that thing didn't fall on my head," he said aloud, forgetting

A lovely spring morning had succeeded a night of gloom and disaster, and the first sound that greeted his wondering ears was the twittering of the busy sparrows on the house tops. Of course he owned neither clock nor watch. These articles, with many others, were represented by a bundle of paws tickets stuffed into one of the envelopes of his mother's packet of letters. But the experience of even a few weeks had taught him roughly how to estimate time by the sun, and he guessed the hour to be 8 o'clock or thereabouts.

His first thought was of the meteor. His toilet was that of primeval man, being a mere matter of rising and stretching his stiff limbs. While lacing his boots he noticed that the floor was littered with tiny white specks, the largest of which was not bigger than a grain of bird seed. These were the particles which shot through the broken window during the previous night. He picked up a few and examined them. They were hard, cold to the touch and a dull white color.

On entering the yard he saw hundreds of these queer little rough pebbles, many of them as large as peas, some the size of marbles and a few bigger ones. They had evidently flown on all sides, but, encountering lofty walls, save where they forced a way through the thin glass of the window, had fallen back to the ground. Interspersed with them he found pieces of broken stone and jagged lumps of material that looked and felt like iron.

By this time the meteor itself had cooled sufficiently to reveal the nature of its outer crust. It appeared to be an amalgam of the dark ironlike mineral and the white pebbles. Through one deep fissure he could still see the fiery heart of the thing and he imagined that when the internal heat had quite exhausted itself the great ball would easily break into pieces, for it was rent in all directions.

His first exclamation was one of thankfulness.

"I am jolly glad that thing didn't fall on my head," he said aloud, forgetting that had its advent been delayed a second or two the precise locality selected for its impact would not have mattered much to him.

"I wonder what it is," he went on. "Is it worth anything? Perhaps if I

Alcohol

We take pleasure in announcing that we now have Denatured Alcohol for our trade. It is to be used for burning purposes only, as nearly every one now knows, but for use in the arts and mechanics it is the most economical and satisfactory fuel.

This ended his investigations for the night. He used the sacking to block up the window, replenished the fire, set his coat to dry and dragged his mattress from the bedroom to the front of the fire. The warmth within and without the house had made him intolerably drowsy, and he fell asleep while murmuring his prayers, a practice abandoned since the hour of his mother's death.

In reality Philip was undergoing a novel sort of Turkish bath, and the perspiration induced thereby probably saved him from a dangerous cold. He slept long and soundly. There was no need to attend to the fire. Long ere the coal in the grate was exhausted the presence of the meteor had penetrated the surrounding earth, and the house was far above its normal temperature when he awoke.

The sun had risen in a cloudless sky.

dig it out I may be able to sell it as a curiosity."

A moment's reflection told him, however, that he would not be able to discover it that day, even if he possessed the requisite implements. On its lower side it was probably still red hot. Through the soles of his boots, broken as they were, he could easily feel the heat of the ground, so the experiment must be deferred for twenty-four hours, perhaps longer. At any rate, he was sure that his mysterious visitor represented a veritable asset, and the knowledge gave him a sudden distaste for coffee grounds and stale crusts. He resolved to spend his remaining three halfpence on a breakfast and at the same time make some guarded inquiries as to the nature and possible cash value of the meteor itself. Evidently its fall had attracted no public attention. The fury of the elements and the subsequent heavy rain were effective safeguards in this respect, and Johnson's Mews, marked out for demolition a fortnight later, were practically deserted now day and night.

Philip did not then know that London had already much to talk about in the recorded incidents of the two storms. The morning newspapers were hysterical with headlines announcing fires, collapse of buildings, street accidents and lamentable loss of life in all parts of the metropolis. As the day wore and full details came to hand the list of mishaps would be doubled, while scientific observers would begin a nine days' wrangle in the effort to determine the precise reason why the electrical disturbance should have been wholly confined to the metropolitan area. Philip Anson, a ragged boy of fifteen, residing in a desolate nook of the most disheveled district in the East End, possessed the very genesis of the mystery, yet the web of fate was destined to weave a spell that would delectably close his lips.

Remarkable Rescue.

That the truth is stranger than fiction, has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes: "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed for coughs and colds 50c. and $1.00, at all drugists. ## FINALLY OPENED BY SECRETARY OF WAR WILLIAM TAFT.

Arthur L. Vorys, of Ohio, Becomes Manager of It—Taft Starts For West.

Washington, June 10.—On the eve of his departure for the west Secretary of War Taft held an important conference with Arthur L. Vorys, manager of the Taft movement in Ohio. As the result of the conference Vorys will become the active head of the Taft campaign throughout the country. National organization was discussed at some length this afternoon. Secretary Taft has been so well satisfied with the work done by Mr. Vorys along conservative lines in his own state that he has been anxious to have him take charge of affairs in the larger field. Mr. Vorys favored the selection of some experienced men—better known to the country—to direct the campaign, but Secretary Taft was insistent and he yielded.

BRAKES REFUSED TO STOP MOTOR

Rear End Collision at Twenty-Fourth and Jefferson

William Brazelton Sustains Slight Injuries By Being Thrown From His Seat.

LITTLE DAMAGE WAS CAUSED

One was injured, many excited, and three trailers put out of commission at Twenty-fourth and Jefferson streets Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a rear end collision of street cars. The accident was due to the failure of brakes to work properly, it is said.

Street car, No. 4, in charge of Motorman William Bethel and Conductor Tonkins, was proceeding out Jefferson street, pulling three trailers, and was followed by car, No. 1, in charge of Motorman Blake. At Twenty-fourth street a boy desired to alight, and Motorman Bethel stopped the first motor car. The second motor was running pretty fast, and the motorman applied his brakes.

They refused to respond properly, and there was a crash as the heavy car ploughed its way into the trailers. William Brazelton, of the Rudy-Phillips store, was seated in the rear of the last trailer, and was thrown out of his seat and his left leg was sprained and bruised.

The draw-heads of the car were bent and made it impossible to use the cars until repaired.

Merely a Fable.

A frog and a cow stood together by the side of a mill pond.

"Do you think," asked the frog, "that by expanding the air in my mouth I could attain your dimensions?"

The cow chewed her cud reflectively. "It's a hypothetical question," she replied.

"Well, you'll admit hot air expands indefinitely! You also know that the epidermis will stretch a mile before it tears an inch!" Now, if I take a large mouthful of air and hold my breath, won't the heat of my body expand the air and stretch my cuticle until I am as large as you?"

"I can't say," replied the cow. "Frame it differently."

The frog drew in a long breath and closed his mouth. Slowly his body bulged out. A passing flea buzzed an objection. With a loud report the frog exploded.

JOSEPH VOGT

DIES SUDDENLY AT AGE OF FORTY-NINE YEARS.

Well Known and Popular Tailor Succumbs to Congestion—Buried on Sunday.

Mr. Joseph Vogt, 49 years old, one of Paducah's best known and most highly respected citizens, died Saturday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock after an illness of only a few hours. His death came as a shock to countless friends in Paducah. He had been in good health until Saturday morning.

Saturday morning before day break Mr. Vogt was taken suddenly ill of what appeared to be congestion. Physicians gave temporary relief, and at noon Saturday the popular tailor ate a hearty dinner, but did not go to work. Shortly after the noon hour he was seized with the second attack, and sank rapidly until death relieved his sufferings.

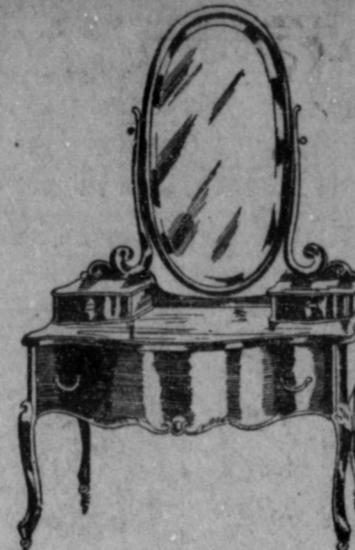

Joseph Vogt was born and reared in Paducah. He adopted the tailoring trade, and for more than 36 years had been connected with the B. Welle & Sons store. He was a genial, affable man, and made friends wherever he went. He was a member of the Second Baptist church, a prominent member of the Knights and Ladies of Honor and took an active part in both church and lodge work.

He was twice married and leaves a wife and the following children: Mrs. Charles Grear, wife of the well known butcher; Mr. Joseph Vogt, Jr., a well known butcher, and Miss Mabel and Master Dewey Vogt. One brother, Mr. Henry Vogt, of Chattanooga, Tenn., survives him.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The services were conducted by the Rev. Graham, of the Second Baptist church. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Clarence Bennett, Harry Johnson, Eugene Patton, Henry Hazotte, Van O. Burnett, and Sydney Lemon.

Mrs. Mockbee's Funeral.
The funeral of Mrs. Mary Emilie Mockbee was held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence, 714 Goebel avenue. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Infant Child Dies.
A telegram announcing the death of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Porter, of this city, in Campbell, Mo., yesterday morning, was received in Paducah last night. No details were sent. The burial was this morning at 10 o'clock in Campbell. Mr. and Mrs. Porter are visiting relatives in that city. Mr. Porter is a

COURT CONVENES TODAY FOR MARSHALL CIRCUIT

Circuit Judge William M. Reed convened and organized Marshall circuit court this morning, and after empanelling the jury, returned to Paducah at 1:15 o'clock. Tomorrow he will empanel the petit jury and go into the trial of criminal and civil cases. The docket is light and will last about two weeks.

Bonaparte Favors Stripes. Washington, D. C., June 10.—Charles J. Bonaparte, attorney general of the United States, has gone on record as favoring a suit of stripes and imprisonment as the punishment that should be meted out to individuals who compose corporations which break the laws of the United States. In an interview here he says: "In some cases where continuous violations of the law involve a large number of illegal acts, each one of them criminal, the total fines which can be imposed have proved a sufficient deterrent. But in other cases the law can be made more clearly and effectively enforced through the imprisonment of individual defendants. This is the belief of most prosecuting officers.

ADAMS NEXT

QUESTION: WILL HE CORROBORATE ORCHARD, OR NOT?

Confessed Once, but Repudiated It—New Evidence Brought to Light.

Boise, Idaho, June 10.—Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the assassin in many of the "bumping-off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard has confessed.

Adams also confessed last year, but unlike Orchard, he repudiated the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting.

Those who have seen Adams' confession, say it surpasses Orchard's story of cold-blooded man hunting and murder.

Some new light has been thrown on the murder of Lyte Gregory in Denver. According to statements made by the police in Denver, Orchard and Simpkins, or whoever his accomplice was, were suspected at the time of the murder. Blood hounds tracked them to the yard behind Pettibone's store where Orchard says he hid his guns, and other evidence was discovered. The police were about to arrest the two men when orders came from some mysterious source that the men were not to be molested, and Orchard was allowed to get out of town.

Street Car Runs Amuck.

Street car, No. 93, tried to go two ways at once Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at Fourth street and Broadway, and ended by running into a city light pole, but little damage was done and no one injured. The car was rounding the curve from Broadway into South Fourth street. The front trucks took the curve, but the rear trucks went out of Broadway, throwing the head of the car into the light pole. Motorman Bryan was quick to act. Glass in the front end of the car was broken out, this being the extent of damages.

One of the modern features of river traffic is the high class advertising that is being done this season by the packet companies. In no previous years has the same effort been made to attract people to the pleasures of river trips, as this summer. The beauties along the lines of navigation have been photographed and worked into a catalogue setting forth the convenience and pleasures of a vacation trip on the river. The Lee Line steamers have advertised more extensively than other lines, even making a house to house distribution of literature that compares favorably with the best resort advertising. The Paducah and Evansville Packet
